REDS SWEEP INTO LATVIA

LONDON, July 11 (AP)—Russian troops streaming deep into Lithuania thrust within striking distance today of the East Prussian frontier and moved swiftly toward the Baltic coast in wide enveloping advances which threatened to trap two German armies in the north.

Ducking The Sun At Carson

The cameraman caught this group of youngsters at Carson Beach just before savage thunderstorms broke Greater Boston's four-day heat wave. The lad who's attracting the attention is Jackie Linehan of South Boston, a clever youngster who garnered a barrel . . . and took to ducking up and down in his private pool to the envy of his playmates. Today more thunder showers were forecast by the weather bureau.

Guam, Rota Invasion Seen

PEARL HARBOR, July 11 (AP)—American ships and planes struck fresh blows at Guam and Rota over the weekend, bringing complete neutralization of the Marianas—or perhaps new invasion operations—a step nearer today.

Light cruisers and destroyers shelled Guam for the second time since Japan took the island Dec. 31, 1941. Guam first was shelled June 15 while the Saipan landings were in progress.

A Pearl Harbor communique said the Guam shelling damaged Japanese defense positions, buildings and small craft.

Planes of a fast carrier task group, braving heavy anti-aircraft fire, attacked both Guam and Rota with bombs, rockets and machine-gun fire. One plane was lost, but a destroyer rescued the crew.

The Americans who sliced neatly through the Marianas by taking Saipan hunted down the few remaining snipers and stragglers. Wounded enemy civilians also were trickling in to surrender.

Liberators attacked the principal Japanese bases in the Carolines—at Truk, Palau, Yap and Wotai.

Enemy planes took off from Truk and Palau to avoid destruction on the ground. Only at Yap was there interception, but three of the 13 enemy planes probably were shot down.

Ring Closes on Japs in Guinea

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, July 11 (INS)—American and Australian troops tightened the noose around helplessly trapped Japanese forces in New Guinea today.

The Japs continued to move up along the coast toward Aitape Airfield.

Gen MacArthur's headquarters revealed that a considerable force of Japs was concentrated several miles from the airfield, where in all probability they might try a suicide break-out of the ring of forces relentlessly closing in on them.

RAF Mosquitos Blast Berlin

LONDON, July 11 (AP)—Berlin was bombed last night by RAF Mosquitos the Air Ministry announced today, and the German radio said that Allied daylight raiders thundered across the western border of Germany this morning.

The weather boggy curtailed battlefront support operations yesterday and last night, but the RAF's indefatigable Mosquitos, in addition to hitting the German capital, ranged over Northeastern France, making big dents in German troop movements and transport facilities. One bomber was lost on the Berlin raid.

bank of the Orne river, while the American drive down the Cherbourg peninsula registered small but consistent gains of from one to two miles.

Indications were seen in the American sector that flank penetrations from the direction of Carentan and the Vire river were forcing the Germans to withdraw south along the west coast of the peninsula.

South of Caen the Germans were putting up a furious fight, to stem the drive of Gen. Montgomery.

WEATHER POOR

Heavy fighting raged south of the Orne and Orne rivers.

Field dispatches reported the destruction of 30 to 35 German tanks, but the Nazis pushed the British out of Maltot. The British withdrew to the north of the town under heavy mortar and artillery fire.

The German position west of the Orne appeared hopeless in the long run, but the fanatical Nazi opposition against the drive of the British and Canadians was forcing the fighting line back temporarily in some spots and limiting progress to a few hundred yards in others.

Part of the lost of power of Montgomery's punch was caused by bad weather, which made it impossible for the Allied air force to put in strong, close support.

Canadian troops cleared all the Germans from the north bank of the Orne river down to its junction with the Orne. The British clung fiercely to Hill 112, just north of Esquay, which controls land observation between the two rivers.

FORCE NAZI RETREAT

This sturdy stand forced the Germans to retreat from the hill area.

British armored cars pushed down to the west bank of the Orne at Athis, a tiny hamlet between Maltot and Caen, but withdrew later.

Although Maltot was lost temporarily, British Tommies clung to Etterville and Canadians cleared the Germans from Louvigny, in the loop between the two rivers.

First signs that Field Marshal Rommel was being forced into a general withdrawal in the Cherbourg peninsula came when Gen. Bradley's columns pushing south from Carentan and down the west bank of the Vire river threatened German flank positions.

5th Encircles Foe In Livorno Drive

By NOLAND NORGAARD

ROME, July 11 (AP)—Employing encircling tactics against stubbornly defended and heavily fortified German strongholds, American troops were working their way steadily northward today in a broad enveloping movement aimed at Livorno.

Allied headquarters announced that Fifth Army forces had bypassed Lajatico, 21 miles southeast of Livorno, in one phase of this movement and had stabbed ahead against fierce opposition. A similar operation resulted in the bypassing of Poma, about

London Has First Robotless Night

BULLETIN

LONDON, July 11 (AP)—Flying bombs started slamming down on London and southern England today after the capital's first free night from the German terror weapon in almost a month. The attacks were below the peak of previous assaults.

LONDON, July 11 (AP)—Millions of Londoners had their best sleep in almost a month last night—the first night the British capital has not had a flying bomb attack since Hitler loosed his vaunted secret weapon June 13.

While the buzz-bomb attacks continued on southern England, even these assaults were not as heavy as they have been. Damage and casualties were reported light.

Coastal watchers noted that the flying bombs were approaching from a more easterly direction than heretofore.

This evoked conjecture that the Germans were using emplacements farther east along the coast, possibly because of the Allies' smashing bombings of the Pas de Calais area.

The Soviets attacked on a broad front between doomed Wilno and the vital communications hub of Dvinsk.

Russian armed columns smashed across the highway from Dvinsk to Kaunas and reached the rail town of Utena in the advance on Riga.

Along the 100-mile Wilno-Dvinsk front, more than 300 populated places were freed from the grasp of the Germans.

The Red Army onslaught completely cut off Wilno, inside of which street fighting was in progress between remnants of the German garrison and Soviet riflemen battling to mop up the enemy forces.

Immediately behind the Baltic front other Red army columns plunged ahead beyond liberated Minsk, capital of White Russia, and south of the town of Lida, occupied more than 80 inhabited points.

At the lower end of the current 500-mile front, Soviet columns driving westward through the Fripet marshes area and along the Minsk-Warsaw rail line captured the rail cities of Luninets and Slonim.

Thye to Face Allen In Minnesota

MINNEAPOLIS, July 11 (AP)—Republican Gov. Edward J. Thye and Byron G. Allen, Democratic-Farmer-Laborite, endorsed by the convention which last April formed that new party, were chosen as nominees of their parties for governor on the basis of unofficial returns in the Minnesota primary.

Thye was picked by former Gov. Harold E. Stassen to take over when Stassen joined the Navy 15 months ago. Allen, a former Iowan who describes himself as a Wallace Democrat, based his primary campaign on a plea for reelection of President Roosevelt.

the nomination for lieutenant-governor.

CASEY BACKS RUSSELL

In the U. S. Senate fight among the Democrats, former Cong. Richard M. Russell, three-time mayor of Cambridge, was given a last-minute endorsement by former Cong. Joseph E. Casey of Clinton, who sought the office in the last election.

Russell is opposed by Mayor John H. Corcoran of Cambridge, Joseph Lee of Boston and former State Sen. Joseph Langone of the North End.

The Republicans are depending upon the spirited contest that has been waged in the five-man battle for the nomination for lieutenant-governor to bring out a sizable vote.

Contesting for the office are Dist. Atty. Robert Br. ford of Middlesex County, Senate President Jarvis Hunt, House Speaker Rudolph F. Kug, Mayor Daniel McLean of Beverly and William H. McMasters of Belmont.

It is the Democrats of the Commonwealth, however, who have stimulated public interest, largely as a result of the active participation in the campaign of the

Lengthy Inquest Opens On Circus Fire Blame

HARTFORD, Ct., July 11 (AP)—With the death toll raised to 159 in the catastrophic Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey Circus fire, 35 witnesses today prepared to appear before Coroner Frank E. Healy at the opening of the inquest to fix the criminal responsibility, if any, for the greatest disaster in American circus history.

The coroner said he expected the inquest would continue for several weeks, with the testimony from the state fire marshal's hearing being introduced.

State Police Commr. Edward J. Hickey, in his capacity as state fire marshal, said his hearing would continue for several days. It has been in progress almost constantly since the disaster.

As Hartford buried its six unidentified dead at Northwood Cemetery, Hickey continued to probe into every possible detail concerned with the appearance of the circus in the city, what led up to the fire, and the fire itself.

Hickey heard sworn testimony from Fire Chief John C. King and First Deputy Chief Henry G. Thomas, the city fire marshal; Building Supervisor William J. Ennis; Building Inspector C. Henry Hayes; Police Clerk William H. Cronin and Supt. of Public Buildings Edward F. Killian.

Also heard were William Dunn of the Manufacturers' Trust Co. of New York, secretary of the circus corporation, and Insurance Commissioner W. Ellery Allen. Dunn was accompanied by his counsel, Daniel Judge of New York and Lt. Gov. William L. Hadden of West Haven.

Dunn and Allen were reported to have testified concerning whether the circus carried public liability insurance. It has not been definitely established, a responsible spokesman said, whether the circus is protected by this form of insurance.

Coroner Healy said his inquest would not be open to the public.

June Gives Registry Cash Gain for Year

The registry of motor vehicles today reported receipts of $5,882,506 for the fiscal year ended June 30, as compared with $5,871,608 for the previous fiscal year.

Chief Accountant William F. Campbell said the registry collected $394,673 in June this year as compared with $356,703 in June, 1945.

Maine Tightens Tent Show Rules

AUGUSTA, Me., July 11 (AP)—Acting promptly on the heels of the disastrous Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey circus fire in Hartford, Ct., Maine insurance officials today put in effect 10 regulations governing circus and carnival shows.

First of the orders demands that all tents utilized for patrons be fireproofed, and that a certificate showing that such fireproofing had been done within six months be presented when shows apply for licenses.

Another requires a minimum of one entrance and one exit to each tent, and that these be provided on the basis of 30 inches horizontal for every 100 people, and must be a minimum of 10 feet in height.

Smoking in any tent used for performances was banned.

They danced together. Lt. White said to the beautiful dark-haired Gail five minutes after he met her, "You are the girl I am going to marry."

"Don't be silly," was Gail's reply.

But that dance led to a series of dates and dinners, and when she returned to Hollywood he called her on the long-distance phone, sent telegrams and wooed her persistently.

Gail, on a hospital tour, only a few days ago stopped at Jacksonville, Lt. White, stationed at Miami, flew up to see her and asked her to marry him. And this time she didn't say, "Don't be silly." She said "Yes."

They were to be married today at 3 p. m. at the Jacksonville naval air station.

This is the second marriage for both. Gail was divorced from Robert Cobb, owner of the Brown Derby, about three years ago. Lt. White, who is 30, formerly was married to Barbara Beckwith.

Dewey Maps Bay State Win

WEDS ARMY MAN—Married at the Church of the Assumption in Selma, Ala., the former Frances Fay Farrell (above) of Brighton today is the bride of Robert C. Jones, U. S. Army, of Camden, Ala. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Frances Farrell, noted organist.

Thomas E. Dewey, Republican Presidential nominee, and Congressman Joseph W. Martin of North Attleboro early today completed preliminary plans to carry Massachusetts in the November election.

On the heels of Martin's departure for the Bay State to get the Republican presidential campaign going in earnest, George B. Rowell of Cambridge, chairman of the Massachusetts Republican State Committee, was scheduled to arrive for a conference with Gov. Dewey this evening.

At this conference also will be discussed the proposed Dewey tour of Massachusetts in August with speeches at Boston, Worcester and Springfield.

MARTIN LAUDS CONFERENCE

Martin and Gov. Saltonstall headed a Massachusetts delegation, including Sen. Weeks and nearly all Republican members of the Congress from the Commonwealth, which spent more than four hours with Governor Dewey at dinner and in conference.

"We had a very interesting talk with Gov. Dewey," Martin said. "We discussed all political questions that may be part of the next national administration. We found ourselves very much in agreement with the Governor."

"I'm happy to say that we're able to bring him a very optimistic report concerning Massachusetts."

"We are of the opinion that we are going to carry Massachusetts for the first time since 1924. The Dewey-Bricker ticket has been very well received in Massachusetts. Thousands of Democrats are going to vote Republican for the first time this fall."

"Our meeting with Gov. Dewey was most satisfactory. All of the delegation were delighted with him. We were amazed at the grasp he has on national problems."

IMPRESSES SALTONSTALL

Gov. Saltonstall, radiating enthusiasm, told the press just before he boarded a train for home early today: "I was even more impressed with Gov. Dewey tonight than I have been in the past."

"He has an intimate knowledge of the issues and problems that confront this country."

"We hope to elect every Republican candidate for Congress and to elect a Senator as well—I say that with a smile because I hope to be that guy."

Governors to Map Dewey Vote Drive

By The Associated Press

Democrats talked platform and vice presidential problems today while Republicans looked forward to a pooling of the election-winning abilities of their 26 governors for the benefit of Thomas E. Dewey's race for the presidency.

Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, majority leader in the House and chairman of the Democratic Convention Platform Committee, expressed confidence that one plank will call for "sound and international action to prevent war and to assure permanent peace."

TALKED ONLY OF CHINA

The convention starts a week from tomorrow in Chicago, but a two-hour visit between President Roosevelt and Vice President Wallace at the White House yesterday produced no new information on how Wallace stands for renomination. Wallace was emphatic in saying the only subject they discussed was China, whence he has just returned.

At Montgomery, Ala., Gov. Chauncey Sparks declared that Southerners who want to supplant Wallace are unwise in not uniting behind one candidate alone. He said he thought Sen. Barkley of Kentucky would be a good bet politically.

A conference of Republican governors, disclosed by Gov. C. A. Bottolfson of Idaho as having been set for Kansas City Aug. 2-3, was discussed at the national convention which nominated Dewey and Bricker.

POINT TO GOP GAINS

Gains made in recent years in the number of states governed by Republicans were described at the convention by Gov. Earl Warren of California, the keynote speaker, as proof that the country as a whole will go Republican in November.

Utah, Washington, Michigan, New Hampshire and Oklahoma chose nominees for Congressional and state officers. Minnesota Republicans gave a long lead yesterday to Gov. Edward J. Thye, running for renomination against John C. Peterson. A close to two-to-one margin was piled up at the same time by Byron G. Allen for the gubernatorial nomination of the combined Democratic-Farmer-Labor party.

Wipe Out Japs, Carlson Warns

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 11 (AP)

Li Col. Evans F. Carlson, 46, Marine raider wounded in rescuing a Brooklyn private on Saipan, declared today: "It always has been my opinion that the Japanese high command has not honestly believed it could beat us."

In an interview at Naval hospital he said: "They intended to grab all they could, then hold on to it and, if possible, effect a compromise peace—thus retaining a large share of the areas conquered in the Pacific."

"It is just this move that the American people must avoid. This would mean just a breathing spell, and the Japanese would continue their dreams of world conquest. We must completely conquer their army and navy."

"Another thing we Americans must keep in mind is that while the island of Japan constitutes a home base, they have an extremely strong army on the eastern shores of Asia, and a substantial economic base in Manchukuo."

City Club to Close When Cash Gone

The famous Boston City Club will close its million-dollar building on Ashburton pl. as soon as it becomes insolvent, and the club now has but $225 left in assets.

This is the decision made at a meeting by 130 members. The board of governors on July 1 closed up all club activities and departments.

Immediate cause of the club's financial difficulties, according to Pres. Marcus Berbe, 2d, is the reduction and impending loss of revenue for housing 350 WACs, originally $85,000 a year.

Vatican Denies Visit By Fr. Orlamskii

VATICAN CITY (INS)—Vatican spokesmen denied reports published abroad that the Rev. Stanislaus Orlamskii, Polish-American priest who recently visited Premier Josef V. Stalin of Russia, will arrive soon at the Holy City to confer with Pope Pius XII.

The spokesman said that the Vatican has had no contact with Father Orlamskii, who left his parish at Springfield, Mass., for a short visit with Stalin which aroused great attention in the United States.

Sweet Potato Price To Average 10 Cents

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—The OPA today imposed price ceilings on 1944-crop sweet potatoes intended to result in a national average retail price of about 10 cents a pound, somewhat lower than last year's average.

The regulation provides ceilings, effective July 15, designed to reflect an average farm price of $1.69 a bushel, as required by the Office of Economic Stabilization.

Russia Balks At Trade Report

BRETTON WOODS, N. H., July 11 (AP)—Russia left with the United Nations monetary conference today a reminder that she is not yet convinced of the necessity for opening completely the books on her internal economy to the rest of the world.

Reports gained circulation that the Soviet delegation strongly resisted efforts to adopt an information report provision. The information presumably would include the extent of her gold holdings and production, capital movements, foreign trade volume and exchange rates. It would provide the basis for determining quotas.

At least two items in dispute, informed sources said, are gold production and price levels within the Soviet Union.

Black Gas Probe to Hit 1000

An ever-growing gasoline black market probe will break wide open within two weeks and will involve 1000 eastern right in Metropolitan Boston.

This was the promise of Cornelius T. Moynihan, OPA regional enforcement officer, in addressing 500 Greater Boston gasoline dealers at a Ford Hall meeting.

At the same time, it was predicted that, because of black market inroads and the vast amount of fuel needed in the invasion, black market gas operations also there will be a 15 to 20 per cent shortage in Massachusetts for the rest of July. This prediction was made by Harry J. Underwood, division manager of the Shell Oil Co.

Thunder Showers Due Again Today

Savage thunderstorms brought only temporary respite in Boston's four-day warm spell as the temperature mounted steadily again today.

The weather bureau predicted humid weather and a temperature high of 93 degrees before thunder showers strike again this afternoon or evening.

Earlier, a 21-degree drop was recorded following furious thunderstorms which spilled a full inch of rainfall in two hours and caused widespread damage from lightning bolts.

WYOMOUTH, HINGHAM DARK

In Weymouth and Hingham all street and house lights were put out by bolts of lightning. Lightning struck the lighting station in East Weymouth and fire following badly damaged it. Short circuits created by the bolts burned out bulbs and fuses in hundreds of homes. In Hingham lights were out for hours. Many trees were felled in both towns and a number of small outbuildings hit.

In Roslindale the same lightning bolt struck two adjoining homes, one a three-family house on Farquhar st. and the other a two and one-half-story house on Fletcher st. Both were roof fires and the damage was not heavy.

A flagpole was toppled on the roof of the Northern Industrial Chemical Co. on Elkins st., South Boston, and in its fall it smashed several windows in the upper floor. Lightning also set fire to the roof of a three-story building on Broadway, South Boston, but occasioned only minor damage.

BRIGHTON HOUSE HIT

A chimney came tumbling down after being struck at Tyler st. and Broadway, South End. Most serious of all the reported damage by lightning was caused by a bolt hitting a two-family house on Colborne rd., Brighton, and setting fire to the roof and upper floor, causing $3000 loss.

On Eastland rd., Jamaica Plain, $350 damage was caused by a roof fire set by lightning on a story and a half building owned and occupied by Edward Sullivan.

Noxon Trial Contempt Denied by 2 Deputies

PITTSFIELD, July 11—Vigorous denials were voiced today by two deputy sheriffs who next Monday must appear in superior court and show cause why they should not be prosecuted for criminal contempt in connection with the first trial of John F. Noxon, Jr.

They are Deputies Wallace H. Kezer of North Adams and William A. Ford of Lee, who guarded the first jury before that trial ended in a mistrial. They are accused by Dist. Atty. Charles R. Alberti of having held conversations with the jurors in an attempt to influence decisions.

Meanwhile, Gov. Saltonstall revealed he has received thousands of letters from all parts of the nation in connection with the sentence of Noxon to the electric chair for the murder of his baby son, Lawrence.

The Governor said he would make a public announcement in the case prior to his coming vacation trip to Maine.

WIFE, SON VISIT

Noxon, who will be taken to State Prison some day this week, has been visited at the jail here by his wife and son, John, Jr.

In the show cause complaint against Kezer, Alberti charges he "attempted by conversation with the jurors, or some of them, to influence their decision," that his action "tended to hinder and obstruct justice and constituted contempt."

It stated he entered the jury room during a recess and said to members of the group, "Mr. Ely would like to know what your reactions are and if you have reached any opinion."

DEBIL BY ELY

When former Gov. Joseph B. Ely, counsel for Noxon, was told of this statement he indignantly denied that he had anything to do with it.

"I never exchanged a word with either of these men in my life, or as far as I know with any of the deputies," he said. "It is absolutely false. It is so ridiculous that I don't know what to say except that it is false."

"I don't believe that any sheriff in the county would do anything like that, anyway."

The show cause complaint against Ford says he held an hour-long talk with William Widen, North Adams manufacturer who served as foreman of the jury, in Widen's hotel room, and during the talk "tried to influence his decision" in favor of Noxon.

2 Navy Men Held In Woman's Death

LOS ANGELES, July 11 (AP)—Navy Chief Petty Officer John M. Maloney was booked on suspicion of murder after he confessed, Sheriff's Lt. A. V. England and Garnet Brown said, striking Mrs. Walker, 31, whose nude body was found in her bedroom early Sunday.

Brown said that Maloney, 27, a Navy physical instructor who gave Boise, Idaho, as his home, admitted hitting Mrs. Walker, wife of Melvin Walker, Navy cook stationed in San Diego, during a party, but said he did not realize she was dead.

Maloney's companion, Donald Pinta, 26, of Los Angeles, Navy electrician, was held as a material witness, also booked on suspicion of murder. Maloney said he was graduated from Notre Dame in 1941.

Brown said the party, at which Pearl Gipe, 28, a friend of Mrs. Walker, was an all-night guest, climaxed a week of intoxication for the two Navy men.

Mrs. Walker's husband arrived home on a week-end pass only an hour after her body was found. Brown said Maloney had naval AWOL from the San Diego Naval Base since Monday, and Pinta since June 27.

Woman Held in Neighbor Attack

Miss Catherine Corcoran, 40, of Dorchester ave., Dorchester, faced charges of assault and battery with a dangerous weapon in Dorchester Court today following a mysterious argument and battle with a next-door neighbor, Miss Mabel Gillingham, 34.

The woman was arrested by Sgt. Patrick Conley of Fields Court station who arrived to end the struggle and take Miss Gillingham to City Hospital.

The latter was treated for a lacerated finger and a cut on the neck. Police said a knife inflicted the wounds.

Husband Drowned As Wife Is Rescued

CENTERVILLE, July 11—Unable to swim, William Ainsly, 32, superintendent at a Springfield defense plant, was drowned when he leaped into Lake Wessagquet to the rescue of his wife, Muriel.

Ainsly and his wife were sailing with Herbert Cahoon, Jr., 17, when Ainsly dived overboard to recover a rudder.

Score on Stand In School Battle

LOWELL, July 11—A score of witnesses were summoned today for a show-down battle of Vincent M. McCartin, former superintendent of schools, and Raymond E. Sullivan, former headmaster of Lowell High School, with members of the Lowell School Committee.

The two men, removed by a school committee vote and demoted to the rank of teachers, seek reinstatement through a writ of mandamus brought in Superior Court before Judge Philip Sherman, sitting as master.

At the time the two were demoted, James F. Conway was promoted to superintendent of schools and Joseph G. Pyne to headmaster of the high school.

Officer Home with Invasion Injury

First Officer Henry G. Beaudreau, U. S. Merchant Marine, member-on-leave of the Boston Fire Dept., today was at his P. st. South Boston home, recuperating from a broken arm suffered June 13 while under fire from German dive bombers off the Normandy coast.

Beaudreau went back into service when the United States entered the war and was made a first officer because of previous experience. He is married and has two young daughters.

Honor Brockton Boy For Saving Wounded

T-4 Earl A. Robinson of Plain st., Brockton, today holds the Distinguished Service Cross, one of seven members of the 82d Airborne Division decorated in the field for exceptional bravery in the early days of the Normandy invasion.

Robinson, practically unaided, removed 20 helpless wounded men after an incendiary shell hit a farmhouse used as a first aid station.

Newsman Weds Hub Marquise

WASHINGTON, July 11—William F. Brooks, director of news and special events for the National Broadcasting Co., and the Marquise Louise De Pallavicini, were honeymooning today following their marriage here.

The ceremony was performed by Chief Justice Edward C. Eicher of the District of Columbia Federal Court in the jurist's chambers. Brig. Gen. John Magruder, of the War Department's bureau of public relations, and Mrs. Magruder were witnesses.

Brooks, a graduate of the University of Missouri and son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Brooks of Los Angeles, was formerly managing director for the Associated Press of Great Britain. The bride is the widow of the Marquis Alfonso de Pallavicini, Hungarian diplomat. She is the daughter of Mrs. Louise Breiler Daly, Boston, and a graduate of Radcliffe College.

Long-Jacket Suit Returns This Fall

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Get set for the return of the long-jacket suit this fall, varying from hipbone to mid-thigh length.

Wary of the bob-tailed jackets of the last two years, designers are showing fitted wool tunics reaching a few inches above the knee, over one-piece dresses with a two-piece look—a wool skirt, for instance, with an attached satin blouse. The long tunic is within WPB restrictions because it is sold as a separate coat.

DRESSMAKER SUITS

A shining example of the new tunic look was shown last night by Nettie Rosenstein, as a curtain-raiser for her gala night showing. The fitted, three-quarter length tunic is ginger colored wool (called Baba Rhum by Nettie). The one-piece sheath dress beneath it has a black wool skirt and black crepe top.

Notable in the Rosenstein collection are a series of dressmaker suits in black and vivid colors, with a whole bag of tricks concentrated in neckline treatments. Blouses are shown in jersey with high, wrapped surplice neckline. Jacket lapels go fanciful in three-dimensional versions, jutting out in rolled treatments, double petal effects, high, exaggerated peaks, rounded, looped and often lined in contrasting color.

SOME SKIRTS ARE SLIT

Jackets are longer, waistlines are longer, skirts are pencil slim and sometimes slit, huge gold key ornaments are used throughout the collection as lapel pins or more often suspended from belts by heavy gold chains.

High spots of earlier openings were Foxbrowne's two-color surplice dresses and Bruno's softly tailored suits in heather-toned tweeds.

McGrath Probers Grill Hingham Man

A 26-year-old Hingham shipyard worker, the first suspect to be actually booked in the long investigation, today faced relentless grilling by state detectives in the murder of 10-year-old Frances McGrath of Dorchester.

He was booked on suspicion in connection with the killing and also on suspicion of carrying a revolver without a permit, after a gun was found in his room in Hingham.

Police said they were dissatisfied with the explanation given by the suspect for a six-day absence from the Hingham shipbuilding plant, where he is employed, and his account of his movements in Scituate on those days.

DATE IS SIGNIFICANT

They are significant dates in the murder investigation for they take in the period from June 10 to 16. It was on June 10 that Frances McGrath was kidnapped and it was on June 16 that her body was found in a Norwell "Lover's Lane."

The suspect admits he spent the six days in Scituate and remained away from his Hingham lodgings during that time. He also admitted he had been an inmate of a mental hospital and that he has a relative now confined in one.

Besides the revolver a woman's slip and a carving knife were found in his room. The knife has dark stains which will be analyzed to see if they are blood stains.

HOLD SECOND SUSPECT

Meantime, in Scituate, it was announced that one suspect who had been previously questioned had not yet been freed from suspicion. Police were exploring the possibility that although he might not be the actual slayer, he may have known the slayer and had been paid for disposing of the body.

Police were checking with a number of banks to see what money, if any, had been deposited to his credit since June 10, the day of the McGrath girl's disappearance.

Officials said the man in question was the friend of a man in good financial circumstances.

2 Officials Dead In R. I. Explosion

CRANSTON, R. I., July 11—Escaping oil fumes, probably touched off by a match or a spark, were blamed today for the deaths of Police Lt. Raymond J. Caniglia, 42, and City Electrician Herman Wischnowsky, 46, when explosion wrecked a cellar where the men were repairing a fuel oil storage drum.

Patrolman Paul Socia escaped a similar fate only by seconds. He had just left the cellar to buy a new faucet for the drum when the blast lifted the house from the foundations and sent flames roaring into the upper floors. The explosion occurred in the Cranston st. home of Lt. Caniglia. Fire officials estimated damage at $10,000.

Modest Marine Waits Wedding

"I have no story, no story at all," said the 22-year-old Marine in his first trip home after seven years of service, including nearly two years of fighting in the South Pacific and five months to hospitalization to recover from battle wounds.

Modest PFC Walter E. Cook is the son of S-Sgt. and Mrs. Lillian Cook of Bernard st., Dorchester. The father has been in the Army for 22 years.

The battle stars and campaign ribbons young Cook wears are proof of his heroism at Guadalcanal and New Georgia, but he will not tell you about them, and says he will never, as long as he lives, talk about war.

Suddenly he said: "Well, I'll tell you one thing for a story. I'll tell you I lay awake every night and thought about home. That's my story."

"I'll tell you the thing that frightened me most of anything in all that time. I was scared of the sight of the buildings here when we landed. I was scared of the cars and the people, they all seemed so good. I kept praying for wings instead of trains to get me home to Dorchester again. "And if there hadn't been a war, wouldn't have met my girl in Virginia who is coming up this month to marry me. I saw her once at the USO. Any girl should wait that long for a guy is it right for me."

More Clothing For Workers

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—In an attempt to increase output of essential civilian work clothing, the War Production Board ordered work clothing manufacturers to produce each quarter at least 90 per cent of the number of garments they manufactured during the third quarter of 1942. WPB said that approximately 915,000 dozen garments were produced during that base period. However, the production of civilian work garments under the new order will not equal a flat 90 per cent of that total because, WPB explained, output of military clothing will be included in the manufacturer's total production total.

The order, which is effective as of this month, also requires manufacturers to resume production of any items of work clothing which may have been discontinued since the base period.

McCormack Urges Vets' Building

Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines today received in Washington another plea that a centrally located building be provided in Boston so that veterans may receive outpatient treatment and process their claims. The plea was made by Cong. John W. McCormack following a conference with Thomas Dorgan, clerk of Superior Civil Court. At present, veterans must seek such help at the West Roxbury Hospital, near the Dedham line.

Move to Quell Colombia Revolt

BOGOTA, July 11 (AP)—A state of emergency was proclaimed throughout Colombia today by Vice-Pres. Dario Echandia, who announced he had assumed the acting presidency after rebel army officers seized President Alfonso Lopez.

Lopez remained a prisoner of the rebels at Pasto, where he and several cabinet members were carried off while they were witnessing army maneuvers.

A dispatch from Panama said Bogota advisers estimated the Pasto garrison numbered about 5000 men. The situation in Bogota was described as orderly.

Dario Echandia emphasized he was determined to stamp out the revolt.

CIO Political Action Committee and the effect this may have upon future elections. Most of the leading Democratic candidates for the higher offices have received the PAC endorsement and the outcome of today's balloting is awaited with keen interest by both Democrats and Republicans alike.

TOBIN AND HURLEY

The outstanding example is the contest for the Democratic nomination for Governor, in which Mayor Tobin of Boston, pro-Roosevelt and with the PAC approval, has battled it out with State Treasurer Francis X. Hurley, anti-Roosevelt and foe of the CIO political unit.

Major tests of the CIO's strength in the political field will be the outcome of the fight in the Third Congressional District, where the unit has supported the candidacy of former State Sen. Eugene P. Casey over Cong. Philip Philbin, also in the 11th District, including sections of Boston, Cambridge and Somerville, with Thomas H. Eliot of Cambridge having the PAC approval against Cong. James M. Curley.

In the 10th District, now represented by Republican Rep. Christian A. Herter, the PAC has advocated the Democratic nomination of Edward O'Hearn Mullowney of Brookline over William A. Carey of Boston.

F. R. BAROMETER

Cong. John W. McCormack, majority leader in the National House, is backed by the PAC over his five opponents in the contest for the Democratic nomination in the 12th District. As recognized spokesman for the President and the New Deal Administration, McCormack's vote will be interpreted a barometer of the Roosevelt strength in Massachusetts.

Among the strictly local city fights, the contest for sheriff of Suffolk County, for which the nomination is equivalent to election, easily holds the spotlight. Five contenders are seeking the post now held by Sheriff Frederick R. Sullivan, now on active service in the Army and candidate for re-election.

Other candidates are School Committee member Michael J. Ward of Allston, City Council President John E. Kerrigan of South Boston, former Rep. Frank M. Leonard of

For the other major State offices, Gov. Saltonstall and Secretary Frederic W. Cook are unopposed for the nomination for United States Senator and State Secretary respectively. State Auditor Thomas J. Buckley is unopposed for the Democratic renomination.

McIntire testified before a Senate subcommittee on wartime health and education. He also suggested that physical education students have a year's training in government military, health or forestry service, where "discipline is one of the main factors."

Gen. Hershey urged a broad wartime and postwar educational health program to prepare every citizen for the responsibilities of democracy.

Hershey's proposal was seconded by War Manpower Comm. McNutt, who said that "under the pressure of war we have learned many things about the health of the nation that we cannot afford to forget."

Maj.-Gen. George F. Lull, deputy surgeon-general of the Army, reported that the health of the United States wartime army has been better than at any time during peace. There have been no epidemics, he said, and only 3 per cent of the injured have died of wounds.

Hershey, pointing out that 4,100,000 men out of 22 million of draft age were exempt from military service because of physical defects, declared "there is no justice, there is no fairness, there is no democracy" when a part of the citizenry must bear the load of the full 22 million.

Before the advent of sulpha drugs, the death rate from pneumonia was 24 per cent, Gen. Lull said, but in the Army it is now 7 per cent. Death rate for meningitis has been reduced from 38 per cent in World War I to 4.2 per cent.

Carries Tommy Gun To Mass in France

Attending mass on the Normandy beachhead with a Tommy gun between his knees was the novel experience of T-3 Fred A. Kennedy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Kenedy of Clinton pt., Newton Center, who gave his parents a graphic description of conditions as the Yanks found them after breaching the Nazi shore defenses.

In a letter received today, he wrote:

"We had to have our weapons with us in church, and every time I bowed my head I would have to look down the business end of that 45-caliber equalizer. Most disconcerting, especially since it was loaded."

Kennedy found the congregation in the tiny French church "for the most part better dressed and better fed than any similar group I've seen in England."

WOMEN WELL DRESSED

He was amazed at the women's clothes in France which he described as very chic and really nice.

"They were dressed exactly as you would expect them to be in peacetime—nice silk printed dresses, pin-stripe suits, and hats that were fancy straw jobs, most of them looking new," he wrote.

"The people around here are hardly affected by the war and don't seem to have done too badly under the Boche. They have plenty of food and wine. The stories we heard about the poor Frenchmen certainly didn't apply to this area."

Kennedy wrote that his first couple of nights in France were "somewhat noisy" due to the incessant artillery fire and chattering of machine guns.

IN QUIET ORCHARD

He concluded his letter with the assurance that "since then we have done much better and at present we're in a nice quiet little orchard."

Kennedy, 30 years old, was a buyer in R. H. White's, before entering the service in Aug., 1942.

His father has been an advertising salesman for the Boston Record-American and Sunday Advertiser for the past 10 years. The elder Kennedy is a veteran of World War I.

Air Passenger Guilty in Death

WILLIAMS FIELD, Ariz., July 11 (AP)—A court martial board handed down a verdict of guilty against 24 Lt. Dean C. Fundingsland, 23, Grand Forks, N. D., tried on two charges as a passenger in a low-flying Army plane which struck an automobile and decapitated its driver, June 22.

Fundingsland, who pleaded innocent, was accused of permitting willful neglect and damage to government property and violation of flying regulations as the senior officer of 2d Lt. Howard F. Stittsworth, 21, Wakefield, Kan., identified in separate charges as pilot of the plane.

The court ordered Fundingsland grounded and recommended his dismissal from the service.

Stittsworth will face charges of murder and violation of flying regulations when he appears before another military tribunal at Marana Field, near Tucson.

Waste Paper Is Gold at Front

Paper cartons and old wrapping paper were worth their weight in gold on Guadalcanal, it was declared today by Sgt. Edmund H. Granath of West Roxbury, wounded Marine.

Granath, on his return home, expressed amazement that people at home are so careless in not saving waste paper.

He said that in the early days of the Pacific campaign many a soldier wrote his final letter home on a discarded piece of wrapping paper and, on one occasion, a whole battalion of Marines were saved at Matanokow river by a coil for reinforcements written on a piece of a cardboard shell case set back by a lieutenant.

Missing Sailor Walks Into Home

HAVERHILL, July 11—The wife and six children of Orville R. Hutchins, 32-year-old Navy man, comprised the happiest family in the city today after a month in which there was nothing for them except mourning.

For Hutchins, reported missing after destruction of his destroyer on invasion day, walked in on his wife and brood at their summer camp in West Epping, N. H. He came here to his Main st. home to hear for the first time that he was believed dead, then dashed to West Epping to tell them it wasn't so.

In fact, on D-day, Hutchins was undergoing a jaw operation in a British hospital. The Navy Department mistakenly had him listed as on board the destroyer.

Hot-Day Drinks

By MARTHA LEE

REACH for a tall, refreshing drink and keep cool and collected in spite of the heat. It tastes even better when it can be made in "two shakes." So when time is short and you want a delicious thirst-quencher in a hurry, shake up one of these-Coffee Cinnamon Froth, Fruited Mocha or a Coffee Milk Shake. Takes time, you think? Not at all, just have the makings stored in the refrigerator ready and waiting. That wonderful coffee flavor is achieved by a coffee syrup which you make in quantity and which keeps well in a tightly-covered jar in the refrigerator. You simply add two or three tablespoons of coffee to a glass of milk, stir well, and you have a wonderful, nourishing drink.

COFFEE SYRUP

1 cup sugar
2 cups boiling water
2 cups ground coffee
Add sugar to boiling water, stir until dissolved and bring to a boil. Remove from heat, add coffee, stir well, cover and let stand 15 minutes. Place 2 thicknesses of wet cheesecloth in a strainer and pour in coffee mixture. Let drip without stirring until grounds are dry. Store syrup in covered jar in refrigerator. Stir before measuring syrup. Makes about 2 cups coffee syrup. Use 2 tablespoons coffee syrup to flavor 1 cup (8 ounces) milk. Sugar may be added if a sweeter drink is desired.

COFFEE CINNAMON FROTH

Combine one glass of chilled fresh milk with 2 or 3 tablespoons of coffee syrup. Add a dash of cinnamon and shake or whip thoroughly. Serve in tall glasses.

FROSTED MOCHA

Combine 1 cup of chilled cocoa or chocolate with 2 tablespoons of coffee syrup. Add a small ball of vanilla or chocolate ice cream and whip thoroughly. Serve in tall glasses.

If you care to take a little more time in making your drink by all means try a Broadway Soda. It certainly hits the spot on a hot day. This recipe is made with double-strength coffee and is simply delicious.

BROADWAY SODA

Combine freshly-made, double strength coffee with one-half as much evaporated milk or an equal quantity of fresh milk. Sweeten to taste with sugar and add a dash of vanilla. Pour over cracked ice cubes, and when thoroughly chilled, strain into tall glasses to one-half level. Add small ball of chocolate ice cream, and fill glass to within one inch of top with sparkling water.

Even though these coffee milk drinks are delicious they can never take the place of real iced coffee. Of course, you have your favorite method of making iced coffee, but in order to get best results, there are a few rules to keep in mind. Start with good hot coffee and then follow through like this:

ICED COFFEE

Pour hot, double-strength, freshly made coffee into a glass filled with ice. The double-strength coffee makes up for dilution caused by melting ice. To make double-strength coffee,

Beauty Hands Need Extra Care Fashion

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

WHAT WITH MAIDS hard to get ... and sometimes the laundry to do ... keeping hands "socially" accepted has meant a little extra pampering. Despite all the so-called rightful alibis for hands not so nice ... it still is a woman's duty to keep them as dainty and feminine as possible.

Sometimes when I see a beautiful woman ... who doesn't care for her hands ... I want to stop her. I want to tell her how easy it is to keep hands something to hold instead of something to apologize for and hide.

True we women have hard shelling at home ... digging in to release an able-bodied gal for war work ... but there still is no reason for ugly, dish-pan hands ... neglected fingernails ... and all-out hand horrors.

For 'tis said ... and proven ... that the girls who work on the assembly line have well-groomed hands, for the most part ... doubtless because they have an awareness for their hands as a working tool.

Extra punishment to the hands has meant extra care ... and so these girls lavish lotion and creams on their finger dainties for those important after-working hours. They use cuticle oil, nail cream and hand protective creams as never before ... since well-cared-for hands mean more work on the assembly line ... and, by the same token, extra care will keep hangnails away, split nails in line ... and will eliminate a dozen other hindrances.

CHANCE TO GET EXPERT'S ADVICE

If you have hand problems ... there is a grand opportunity this week to get an expert's personal advice. A well-known authority on hands and color harmony ... representative of one of the finest nail enamel and matching lipstick countenances ... is in town ... and since she knows all there is to know about making busy, working hands as lovely as possible ... it would do you well to see and talk with her.

This lovely "Lady in Red" ... charming and attractive with nails like something out of this world, they are that gorgeous ... will answer all your questions ... as well as demonstrate the beauty and goodness of splendid hand preparations.

For the name of these hand preparations, and where to see and speak with the "Lady in Red," phone the Beauty Dept., LFBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

IT LOOKS LIKE COTTON ...

gleams like silk ... but actually it is rayon ... this "Gay Nineties" print in powder blue and black ... fashioned by Wesley Simpson into a summer-to-fall peplum blouse of stunning detail ... and launched after months of experimentation. Despite its seeming fragility ... this "sheer lock" fabric is stronger than most other rayons. Over-blue accent is very smart.—R.M.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, Monday—I have had the pleasure of having Mr. and Mrs. William Brown Meloney, Jr., for a short visit over the weekend. Mrs. Meloney (Rose Frankel) brought me the book of her play, "Outrageous Fortune," which she and her husband produced last winter and which I was not able to see. I read it with great pleasure the night before last.

Many of the characters stand out as completely real people. The old mother is typical of hundreds of older women whom I have known, who were tired of living.

The basic point of the play is that we should look upon people as people, and not as belonging to any one race, and therefore having a number of typical racial attributes. In every race, the members of one family differ as widely as it is possible for human beings to differ, and our whole approach to human beings must be on the basis of what each individual has to offer and what particular problems within himself each person has to fight.

I want to go back to the question of the older woman in a family, the widow whose children feel that she will be less lonely if she lives in a home where grandchildren are growing up and where she has young life around her. They assure her that she will be welcome and they insist that her happiness will be far greater with them than if she lives alone.

Of course, when this happens because of economic necessity, an older woman, who is still fairly well, can be a real help. She can mind the children, she can help with the housework. But the minute her work is not really needed, I think an older woman is happier if she lives alone, no matter how simply she has to live. If she has visitors, she can extend her own hospitality. She does not feel that she is on anybody's mind, and she can govern her life within whatever modest budget she may have in the way that suits her best.

It is hard, I think, at the end of a long life not to control your own surroundings, no matter how much you may have to change your way of living. Copyright, 1944 United Feature Synd., Inc. Boston American, July 11—11

FASHION-RIGHT SHADES OF LIPSTICK and nail enamel ... as accessories to your costume ... are very important today. With the frills and fur-bellows out for the duration ... stark simplicity is the keynote ... and face and hands must be truly lovely to be truly beautiful and feminine. If you yearn for hands as appealing as Columbia Star Ann Miller's stem-like extremities ... let a hand counselor ... is in town for the week ... advise you on the care of your hands.

Paired for Campus Wear

By BETTINA BEDWELL

CAMPUS styles are being groomed for September, and the main theme of them is the mixing together of "separates" to make a lot of different costumes out of a few pieces of clothing. One combination I have seen over and over is the one that pairs a weskit and skirt with blouses or sweaters.

The weskit is made of wool for the little extra warmth that comes in so handy in chilly places. Striped and plaid and checked wools are used a lot, paired with one-color skirts.

The Edith Head model in our sketch gives you the idea. Here a weskit of clear green wool with a fine red stripe goes with a beige wool skirt. A shirtwaist of white cotton broadcloth is worn under the weskit, giving the whole outfit a fresh and appealing look.

place in a coffee-maker the regular amount of coffee that you normally use for brewing hot coffee, but only 1/2 the amount of water. Do not put twice the amount of coffee with the usual amount of water, as this doesn't permit proper extraction.

Serve iced coffee with cream or sugar to taste, or if you've never experienced the full flavor of black iced coffee, try it—you'll love its thirst-quenching qualities.

Don't make the mistake of thinking you can use any short cuts in making iced coffee. If you try to make iced coffee by pouring hot, regular-strength coffee over ice cubes, the melting ice robs the coffee of its flavor and doesn't give you the full-flavored drink you desire. Brewed coffee, when allowed to stand for some time, loses both flavor and aroma. Therefore, never try to use leftover coffee for making iced coffee. If you follow these few instructions, you will enjoy iced coffee at its very best.

American Defense Plan

SPEAKING as National Commander of the organization, Mr. Warren G. Atherton has announced that the American Legion will have introduced in Congress legislation to establish universal military service in the United States at the end of the war.

It will not be "military service" such as the militaristic countries of Europe imposed upon their peoples for generations, always for the purpose OF WAGING WARS.

On the contrary, it will be a one-year period of active training in the armed forces, compulsory upon all able-bodied boys at the age of eighteen, AS A MEANS OF KEEPING AMERICA OUT OF FUTURE WARS. Following his year of service, each trainee will become a member of the nation's reserve forces.

Under the Legion plan, therefore, the country will have at all times a formidable peacetime regular army of young soldiers, and in a few years an entire citizenry qualified and organized for immediate service in the event of war.

MR. ATHERTON'S announcement was made at the convention in Pittsburgh of the National Education Association—an appropriate occasion, since the Legion plan is to make compulsory military service A PART OF THE NATIONAL EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM.

Educators themselves will be asked to give advice in formulating the necessary legislation on behalf of the high schools, colleges, universities and engineering schools.

Commander Atherton reminded the teachers that we have not found "permanent peace in pacifism" but rather that "pacifism and neglect of education in arms invites the attack of predatory nations."

Anticipating an "argument" that may be raised, Mr. Atherton also said:

"Some educators may object to the loss of a year from the present channel of education at the high school and college levels.

"They say that if a boy drops out of school for a year after finishing high school, he may never go to college. . .

"I believe that a year of military training will result in a keener, brighter and more ambitious student body in the colleges.

"I even believe that a greater percentage of high school students will continue into college after national military training is instituted than is now the case—if the educators and the military co-ordinate their training and their plans."

IT IS APPARENT that the Legion plan is an adaptation to American conditions of the celebrated Swiss system of military training.

It is essentially a DEMOCRATIC system for the defense of a democracy. It will require exactly the same service from every youth, rich or poor.

It will SPARE the Republic the dangers and evils of a huge professional standing Army and PROVIDE the Republic with the bulwark of a trained citizenry able and willing to bear arms at America's need.

The Legion plan is the plan which the Hearst newspapers advocated during the long armistice between World War I and World War II.

If the plan had been adopted during that armistice, America would probably not be at war today and her sons would not be falling by the thousands on the battlefields of Europe and Asia.

The Hearst newspapers realize that the American Legion is supporting this American plan for universal military training now not because these newspapers have advocated it, but because it is THE RIGHT PLAN for America.

Accordingly, the Hearst newspapers cannot do otherwise than to support the plan now and to commend the American Legion for its patriotic action in providing constructive leadership toward the fulfillment of the plan.

WASHINGTON, July 11—Some years ago we had a very dumb switchboard operator in the newspaper office where I worked. She was about the stupidest cluck I've ever known, because, no matter how often the same gag was worked on her, she never tumbled.

I do not know what became of her, but I presume she must be holding some big government job. Her talent for being baffled made her a natural for the golden field of bureaucracy.

I remember one standard line we used to pull on her. On returning from assignments we would go up to the switchboard and inquire:

"Any calls from Newcastle?" She would look carefully through all her call slips and then say:

"There was one call for you from a fellow who said he would take back that suit, including the extra pair of pants, if you don't get something on the line. But he wasn't calling from Newcastle."

I got to thinking about her and that "coals from Newcastle" thing the other day because I had just learned that the darndest piece of coal-carrying on record is about to be put into execution.

The Democratic National Committee is about to open a school to teach women how to talk!

THE SCHOOL will begin operations at the Democratic National Convention. The avowed purpose is to instruct lady Democrats in how to make campaign speeches.

I think I will make a point to miss the school's opening session.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS:

Q—My son with the forces in China writes me to bet you a stogie you don't know how long a Chinese mile is. A—I believe a Chinese mile is 609 yards.

Q—Did the Duke of Windsor, when Prince of Wales, ride as a gentleman jockey in any races against professional jockeys? A—Not that I know of. However, it would not have been

Mrs. Jean Poletti, wife of Lt. Col. Charles Poletti, former lieutenant-governor of New York and now regional commander of the Rome area.

Mrs. Poletti's topic—and please stop breathing down my neck in excitement—will be:

"The Stepladder Technique!"

MRS. POLETTI, it develops, has become one of the leading lady exponents of the stepladder ever since 1940 when she went through Wall Street delivering campaign speeches from a portable perch.

As a result of her activities, she became a well-balanced woman and is said to be able to shun up and down a stepladder without a single wobble.

I just can't wait to see her class trying it out. I am conceivably of nothing more entrancing than the spectacle of some energetic lady Democrat I know running up and down a stepladder, orating as they go!

ANOTHER LECTURER at the same session will be Mrs. J. Boden Harrison, former United States minister to Norway. I do not know what Mrs. Harrison's subject will be, but she is a very dignified woman and I hope it won't be anything like:

"Campaign Speaking While Swinging From a Chandelier!"

I DO NOT FEEL that I am in any way bound to give free advice to the Democratic national committee, but if I were in its place I would think twice about this gab college.

Look what the Republicans can do with it, if they are so ungallant!

Instead of wisecracking about lady Democrats being out on a limb, they can cheer:

"Up on a stepladder!"

BIG DEAL: Now take a transaction where the matter of price depends strictly on the judgment of two men. What would you say was the biggest deal of this type in United States business history? How about the deal in which Andrew Carnegie sold out to J. P. Morgan? "How much did you take for your interests?" asked Mr. Morgan. "Three hundred million dollars," said Mr. Carnegie. "I will pay it," said Mr. Morgan. After the deal was closed Carnegie felt he hadn't asked for enough and, meeting Morgan on a transatlantic liner a few months later, said: "I think I should have asked you for a hundred million dollars more, Mr. Morgan." The banker said: "If you had I would have gladly paid it to you."

HOLLYWOOD, July 11—The attractive, fair-haired Australian girl, Ann Richards, is the first motion picture actress selected by Hal B. Wallis for his new company. The Richards girl played opposite Brian Donlevy in "American Romance" at M-G-M and received much favorable comment from those who have seen her.

She is so similar to Greer Garson that M-G-M did not keep her. But RKO has a deal with her for two pictures a year. Her contract is shared by Wallis. She'll star in Chris Massie's "The Love Letters" unless Hal should decide to make "The Searching Wind," the Lillian Hellman play, first. Which ever play he does first will have Miss Richards as the feminine charmer.

I CAN BEAR IT if Monty Woolley just turns slightly "nice" in "Centennial Summer"—but if he goes all-out "sweet" it will be too much for my nerves. Yet, this Literary Guild novel of Albert Ideall has been bought for nobody else but my bearded boy friend by 20th Century Fox. Monty once told me, "I can't spit fire all the time"—and maybe he is right. This is the story of a typical American family during the year 1876, when the centennial celebration was in progress in Philadelphia. Otto Preminger will produce—and, maybe, direct.

IN HIS DAY (and it wasn't too long ago) there wasn't anyone who had more vim and vigor on the screen than Lee Tracy. I was a Tracy fan myself—and still am—so I'm glad to report that Lee comes back to the screen in "Betrayal From the East" by Alan Hynd at RKO. This story was syndicated by the Hearst papers in digest form, so you may be familiar with the part Tracy plays—that of the sideshow Barker who works as a counter espionage agent. Lee was recently released from the Army, in which he served as a captain in the Military Police.

ONLY BOOTH TARKINGTON could have done justice to the scene Diana Lynn, 17-year-old actress, played with Eddie Bracken the other day. It was her first kiss on the screen and while there was none of the fanfare that accompanied the scene where Deana Durbin first kissed Bobbie Stack, it was just as important to Paramount. Diana confided to me that it was the first time she got her man in the movies. "I was a little embarrassed," she said, "with everyone looking when I had to kiss Eddie, but an actress has to learn to play any part."

NEW YORK, July 11—Dan Cupid never expected to have our old acquaintance Joe helping him out.

Joe's switch to Cupid's team occurred recently when one of the youngsters in his outfit almost got himself shot out of the South Pacific sky during a rather wild party with a fistful of Jap Zeros. The No. 2 man in Joe's flight, who should have been concentrating on covering Joe, suddenly signaled over the radio telephone for Joe to watch his own tail and took off for upstairs. Joe followed. He pulled up just in time to see his shadow successfully erase a Jap who was about ready to wipe the boy out of the air.

When they were back at their base, Joe looked up the kid.

"What happened to you up there today?" he asked.

The kid's face flushed.

"Sorry I had troubles on my mind and I wasn't thinking. Would have served me right if I'd wound up getting the whole Pacific in my face."

Joe finally got the story.

JUST BEFORE taking off for overseas, the kid had married a girl he'd known since school days. His wife, Margie, was a cute trick—a dancer in a night club back home. She could have made the grade in New York, but she wanted to stay near her invalid mother, and that was all right with the kid. There was just one hitch: the mug who ran the place she worked in had a crush on her, and it was getting unpleasant. She couldn't quit.

"She's having a tough time handling him," the kid said.

THAT NIGHT, in the little Midwest roadhouse where Margie worked, two guys turned up who definitely were not the badminton type. After the show they asked her to join them at their table. "We're friends of your husband, little girl," one of them said. "Who's the guy that's bothering you?"

Margie looked frightened. "Please don't start any trouble," she begged. "He's tough."

One excused himself and went into the boss' office in the back of the place. Less than 20 minutes later he called for Margie and his chum to join him.

"I've got news for you, lady," the mug smiled at Margie. "This guy doesn't like this joint any more. He wants to sell out for about 6000 bucks and I just happened to win that much from him playing gin rummy. There's just one catch. I don't think the cops would like my name on a license out here, so we need somebody who can over the place. Like you."

"Don't worry about him," the mug said tenderly. "He knows that the undertaker in this town is a pal of mine and needs business—and if he ever shows his face around town again my pal will have one customer right away. He won't bother you. We're going to stick around awhile and take care of our investment."

HOLLYWOOD, July 11—A soldier in the "Winged Victory" troupe who was assigned to K.P. duty was heard to remark, joshingly, "I'm going to have my agent speak to the Colonel about this." . . . Capt. Jackie Warner, Jr., took part in the invasion and is now commuting between England and France. . . . Louis Allbritton is getting ready to go to the South Pacific to entertain the soldiers. . . . The principals of the cast of "Hollywood Canteen" have been going to the Hollywood Canteen as a sort of rehearsal for their roles in the picture. . . . Mary Stewart, sister of Lt. James Stewart, is in Florida waiting for a Red Cross overseas assignment.

HAROLD ARLEN and Yip Harburg played their score of "Bloomer Girl" for a select gathering before they left for New York and rehearsals of this show. Before Arlen played and sang the songs, the Harburs, who wrote the "Duffy's Tavern" program, did a comedy song that he wrote with Frank Loesser, in which he described a homely girl and then concluded with, "But I don't care how you look, because you're not my girl." Then Walter Huston sang the "September Song" which is always a delight. Arlen then played and sang the score of "Bloomer Girl" and Broadway is certainly in for a treat and a hit. "The Eagle and Me" is a great song about the Negro and why he shouldn't be persecuted, and "Evelina," the love song of the show, you'll be hearing on the radio. It's a sure bet for the Hit Parade.

JOAN FONTAINE would like to do a picture for Hal Wallis if she and David Selznick can reach an agreement. . . . It's now official that Jack Benny will go to the South Pacific this summer to entertain the boys. Larry Adler, Martha Tilton and others will accompany Benny. . . . Vera Ray, now working in a Chicago night club, was seen by a couple of talent scouts during the convention and will shortly be in Hollywood. . . . Linda Darnell, under contract to Twentieth Century-Fox, was loaned out for the feminine lead in "The Great John L." and now her studio would like to borrow her for a picture they have. . . . Dick Powell and June Allyson are vooming.

IT MAY BE MERELY an unauthorized gesture, but the fact is that one of the best Broadway press agents is including items in his regular releases about Tito, the Jugoslav partisan. . . . The current item insists that not since Valley Forge has a general been obliged to fight his men in their bare feet—as the press agent says is the case with Tito and his lads. . . . Readers may recall the uproar which greeted the news that King Carol of Romania had engaged Russell Birdwell, the American press agent, to represent the king in this country.

Warner's queen of the lot bought the farm land and house at the height of her honeymoon happiness with her late husband, Arthur Fairworth.

EXCLUSIVE: Trouble is brewing in Boston because of the invasion of taxicabs from a neighboring city. . . . The invading cabs are unauthorized to solicit passengers in Boston, but are permitted to answer a direct summons from a passenger. . . . But passengers who hail one of the strange cabs in the presence of other Boston cabbies are treated by the Boston huckies not to board it. . . . For the information of Boston taxi-riders, insurance rates in outlying communities (with the exception of Chelsea) are much lower than the rate for Boston cabs. In damage suits, a fine point of law will present itself if testimony or evidence proves that a passenger entered a cab under solicitation which is not licensed for Boston business. . . . The city represented by the invading cabs in largest number has an insurance rate about one-fourth of the $456 assessed on most Boston cabs. . . . One way to distinguish a Boston cab is to scan its side. . . . Under the regulations, a cab doing business in Boston must have the words "maximum" or "minimum" rate painted on one side.

TWO NEW YORK dessert delicacies, graham-cracker pie and rum pie, are being added to Tommy Maren's growing dessert menu at Shangri-la. . . . Duffy's Tavern in N. Y. makes a feature of graham-cracker pie. . . . Toots Shor's "New Radio City" (as well as Bill and Lena's in Washington) specialize in the rum concoction.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Louis Shurr's overture to lovely Mildred Fitzgerald of Belmont, when the famous Hollywood Broadway 10 per center was here with "Dream With Music," keeps having sequels. . . . Agent Shurr pleaded with Mildred to let him undertake a screen test for her. . . . No success. . . . Now it is Arthur Will, the RKO talent scout, who is offering the Belmont beauty a chance. . . . Mr. Shurr turned over the enterprise to Arthur O'Keefe in his newest and best comedy monologue routine at the Statler's Terrace Room. . . . A "should-beer": Two quartets of instrumentalists. One, the crew headed by Andy Jacobson, plays for dancing at the Fensgate's Sature Gardens. . . . Priet Heimann's quartet plays for listening only at the Music Box circular bar. . . . Another quartet that should get a Boston booking is the veteran singing quartet making the rounds of hospitals and camps and specializing in oldies. . . . Johnny Fay of the Record can tell inquirers all about them.

Maria Montez in 'Cobra Woman' for Keith Screen

"Cobra Woman," with Maria Montez doubling in "sheer-rangs," promises to be something for the boys forming to the right at Keith Memorial Theater tomorrow.

The new Universal Technicolor melodrama reveals the copper-tressed Maria in her natural, eye-popping color-scheme and in the newly created sheerongs (sarongs that are sheer) whose every dart and gusset have been designed to show up the exotic star's finer points.

The fantastic story presents Maria in the dual role of twins, one good, the other bad. The action transpires on a mythical island in the South Pacific. The good Miss Montez is kidnapped as she is on the verge of being married to Jon Hall, who has romanced her in previous cinematic love duets, and transported to the island where her cruel twin sister reigns in tyrannical fashion. Incidentally, neither twin knows of the other's existence.

Hall, accompanied by Sabu, his friend, goes to his fiancée's rescue, mistakes the bad twin for the goodie and pines up everything.

Ann Corio Film To Trans-Lux

Ann Corio, the one-time "queen of burlesque" who aspires to film and "legit" eminence, is to be seen tomorrow on the Trans-Lux screen in her latest tropical adventure, "Call of the Jungle."

The lively figure from the cuticle circuit appears as a white girl who is regarded with awe and affection by the natives of a South Pacific island. When the sacred pearls of the island are stolen and a pearl dealer is murdered, she becomes the center of a hectic series of events in her attempt to aid police in the solution of the case. The natives call it witchcraft.

Ortiz Has $2500 to Bet He Beats Pep

By JACK CONWAY

MANUEL ORTIZ, world's bantamweight champion, is willing to wager $2500 with Willie Pep, recognized as world's featherweight champion in New York, against $4000 that he will be returned the winner in the Battle of Champions at a Callahan A. C. show at National League Park on next Monday night.

"I think my punching power and speed give me a fine chance to defeat Pep," declared Ortiz as he finished a blazing workout at Harry Kelley's Gym. "Pep is fast and a boxer. I do not think he has ever met an opponent who is as quick as I am and who can punch as hard."

"I like to bet on myself in important bouts. I have $2500 that I would like to wager against $4000 that I can beat Pep. I would like Pep to cover my money."

Sgt. Eddie Mack immediately called Lou Viscusi, manager of Pep, on the long distance telephone and told him of Ortiz' offer.

"Pep and myself will be in Boston Tuesday night," said Viscusi, "and we shall talk over the matter of a side bet at that time. They are now betting 8 to 5 in Connecticut, but I have an idea that the odds will not be more than 10 to 8 by next Monday night."

Pep will bring his own sparring partners with him when he comes to Boston. The champion is already in good condition as it was only last Friday night in Chicago that he won seven out of ten rounds from Willie Joyce.

While in Boston, Pep will train at Harry Kelley's Gym. It will be necessary for Harry Kelley to arrange the training time of Ortiz and Pep.

Bout Catches Fire

THE PEP-ORTIZ bout has caught fire, and it will draw a large crowd. Requests for tickets are coming from all parts of New England. Pep, as usual, will have a big following from Connecticut. When the match was first signed a check of $2000 worth of tickets was sent to Connecticut. There has been a new request for $2000 worth of tickets.

The price scale for the Battle of Champions is $1.25, $2.00, $3.60, $5.00 and $6.00. The Federal and State taxes are included in these prices.

The first eleven ringside rows have already been sold. This indicates the great interest in what should prove to be one of the most exciting ring contests ever held in this city.

Test for Lowman

EARL LOWMAN will give Jimmy Mulligan of Lowell a real test in the semi-final of eight rounds. Lowman has battled most of the leading heavyweights and has gained much credit for himself. While he has not always won, Lowman has been in there battling to the final gong. In his last bout here, Lowman lost just the sluke to Irish Johnny Flynn. New York heavyweight, after a grueling engagement.

Mulligan will give away more than 30 pounds, but the Lowell warrior feels he will win. Mulligan has displayed improved punching power with each bout. It will be interesting to see how he fares against the rugged Lowman.

Matchmaker Mack is devoting particular attention to his preliminary card. There was so much favorable mention of the action in the supporting card to the Ortiz-Bolvin bout that Mack would like to repeat with an equally good offering for next Monday night.

Matchmakers should devote more attention to climaxes. The public is entitled to keen competition in such bouts.

Bobby Doerr Reaches Peak

CHICAGO, July 11 (AP)—Belvin Bobby Doerr of the Boston Red Sox, spearheading his club's current threat to the pace-setting St. Louis Browns, has surged to the top of the American League swat column with an average of .340.

Although he climbed 17 points during the past week, Doerr's ascendancy to first place was aided and abetted by Thurman Tucker's terrific 48-point slump. The Chicago outfielder plummeted from a high-riding .375 to third, with .327.

The Red Sox' Pete Fox, was second to Doerr with .333 and a third Beantowner, Flyin' Hawk Boh Johnson, was tied for fourth with Dick Siebert of Philadelphia at .318.

Wally Moses of Chicago and Chuck Hosteler of Detroit were deadlocked for sixth with .307 each, while Vern Stephens of St. Louis had .302; Lou Boudreau of Cleveland .301 and Jimmy Outlaw of Detroit .289, to round out the league's top 10 hitters.

Averages computed through Sunday's games showed that Tucker dropped through the trapdoor with only one hit in 31 tries during his last eight games. He went to the plate 24 straight times without a blow.

Doerr also led in two specialized branches, being the first player to bag 100 hits, his exact toll to date, and sharing the home run leadership with Frank Hayes of Philadelphia at 10 apiece. Cleveland's Roy Cullenbine maintained his lead in two-base hits with 24 and Johnny Lindell of New York kept ahead in triples with seven. Vern Stephens of St. Louis has led in the most runs, 34, while George Strinweis of New York, with a string of 21, wrested the stolen base lead from Washington.

Vitamins Hardly Produce Base-Hits

NEW YORK, July 11 (INS)—A group of baseball fans, perturbed over the loss of 13 straight games by the Brooklyn Dodgers, last night banded together to try to aid the Durochermen make the first division in the National League.

A committee was formed and recommended that Leo Durocher, Dodgers' manager, dose his players with multiple vitamins—"the same kind the St. Louis Cardinals and the St. Louis Browns take before meeting an adversary."

A case of vitamins will be presented to Durocher by the flock boosters.

Even Players Sleep
Mel Ott, manager and Ducky Medwick, left fielder, of the New York Giants, passed up a short workout yesterday for sleep. "We didn't sleep any coming in from Chicago," Ott said.

No Regrets?

NEW YORK (INS)—Toy Bomb and Flying Son combined at the Empire City at Jamaica meeting to return the second largest daily double for a New York track — $3,663.80 to 23 ticket holders.

Toy Bomb took the first race and paid $151.00, $46.60 and $16.40, while Flying Son won the second and returned $74.70, $28.50 and $13.30.

Tex Hughson, Bucky Walters to Toe Slab

PITTSBURGH, July 11 (INS)—Announcement tonight of the line-ups in tomorrow night's All-Star game left gaps in both starting mound assignments which will not be filled until Manager Billy Southworth of the Nationals and Manager Joe McCarthy of the American League confer in Pittsburgh this morning.

TEX HUGHSON vs. BUCKY WALTERS—That's the way the pitching starting assignment lines up for tonight's All-Star game at Pittsburgh which starts at 9 o'clock. Bucky used to play third base both for the Red Sox and Braves until Jimmy Wilson converted him into a pitcher.

However, in the crowded hotel lobbies where the players and the grandstand coaches were assembling for the 12th annual classic, the dope was that Bucky Walters of the Cincinnati Reds would start for the Nationals against Tex Hughson of the Red Sox.

The ball park is a complete sell-out, with more than 36,000 persons expected to pay their way into the gates to swell the Bat and Ball Fund for the men in the nation's armed forces. Only the players and umpires get in free; even the scribbles will have to put up $2.40 for general admission tickets.

Red Sox and Braves Should Decide Quick

By FRED HOEY

During this local major league respite caused by the All-Star extravaganza at Pittsburgh tonight, starting at 9 o'clock, the Braves and the Red Sox should ponder and

Timely Facts

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Facts and figures on the 12th all-star major league baseball game at Forbes Field tonight:
NIGHT—STARTING TIME—8 P. M. (Eastern War Time).
WEATHER—Fair and cooler.
PROBABLE CROWD—Between 35,000 and 40,000.
RECEIPTS—Estimated at $100,000 to go to Baseball's Bat and Ball Fund.
MANAGERS—Billy Southworth, National League, and Joe McCarthy, American League.
ODDS—10 to 10 and take your choice.
PAST GAMES—American League has won eight; National League three.
LAST YEAR'S SCORE—American League 5, National League 3.

Seventy-three chances to drive in runs were missed on the trip. Connie Ryan, a .289 hitter, and picked for tonight's All-Star game in Pittsburgh, failed to drive in a run during the entire trip. Connie, of course, is in top slot and doesn't find many of those low batting order guys on the bases when he comes up.

The Braves, in their long off until Saturday, may ponder and meditate and possibly get some hitting practice. Amundson discovered the South Pole. In your present position in the cellar you Braves threaten his laurels.

But there is always a silver lining in the baseball clouds. Braves Field offers great possibilities to draw customers. How about a huge neon sign on the corner of Commonwealth ave. and Gaffney st. reading "BABE RUTH SLEPT HERE."

And how Babe did sleep, hey Judge Fuchs?

magnates will be held tomorrow before the game.

The American League line-up, besides leaving pitching and catching posts unfilled, also provides for either right or left-handed pitching opposition.

If the Nationals start a right-hander, McCarthy will field the following line-up:

FOUR SOX MAY START

If Southworth puts in a left-handed pitcher, however, McCarthy will substitute Fox of the Red Sox for Spence at right field and Yon of the Tigers for McQuinn at first.

Southworth's line-up includes: Calan, Dodgers, at right field; Conover, Cubs, at first base; Musial, Cards, at center; Mueller of the Reds for Walker Cooper of the Cards at catcher; Walker, Dodgers, left field; Kirovski, Cards, or Elliott, Pirates at third; Ryan, Braves, second base, and Marion, Cards, at shortstop.

Arm trouble developed by Max Lanier, the Cardinals, has counted him out of the game and Southworth has invited Bill Voiselle of the Giants, who was the next ranking pitcher in the ballot of the managers electing the team, to replace Lanier on the squad. Also off the National League squad is Eddie Miller, Cincinnati shortstop, who suffered a shoulder strain.

Red Battery May Start Star Game

PITTSBURGH, July 11 (AP)—It may be an all-Cincinnati battery in the major leagues' A-Star game tonight. "Bucky Walters will start on the mound, for sure," Manager Billy Southworth said. "I'm still debating between Ray Mueller and Walker Cooper of the Cards for catcher."
